

When it comes to caring for their cats with osteoarthritis (OA) pain...

Cat owners budget for more than money

While cost is a consideration, many other factors are equally important to cat owners

The cost of care and its impact over time

The physical demands of care (eg, administering medications or assisting their cat daily)

The time needed to attend to the medical needs of a cat in pain

The emotional impact of treatment successes or failures

As a once monthly injection administered in the clinic, Solensia helps keep osteoarthritis pain from disrupting the unique bond cats share with their humans.

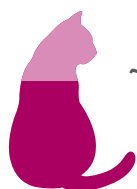

“This is great, it’s a once-a-month injection, less stress than two times a day.” — Cat owner quote

Cat owners strive to keep monthly costs for OA pain medication around $100
